

BEAUTYBYBELL

Beauty Fashion Lifestyle

What's in my beauty bathroom cabinet?

« Previous beautybybellblog / October 17, 2017 / Uncategorized

Hey beauties

So today I thought I would share with you what's in my beauty bathroom cabinet. These are a few items that I cannot live without in the morning and evening... and life.

Skincare:

Every morning I love to use my Elemis pro cleanser to help remove any dirt or make up left from the night before. I also love to use the Elemis illuminating balm to brighten my skin and leaves it feeling soft and hydrated.

Skincare:

Cocoa butter formula tummy butter for stretch marks. As I enter my 7th month of pregnancy I have been preventing stretch marks 3 times a day with my tummy butter, which is extremely hydrating and smells amazing.

7th heaven dead sea mud applied weekly is the best way to stay clear of breakouts and dull looking skin. The dead sea has amazing benefits for your skin that leave it feeling brand new. The best thing about the dead sea face mask is it clears your pores and blackheads too. The perfect product for clearer skin.

Bodycare:

Recently I was sent the new Ushvani Kaffir Lime Bath Oil. I have been using this product daily to keep my skin hydrated, and with its amazing ingredients prevent fine lines and wrinkles on the skin. The smell is incredibly refreshing and instantly leaves you feeling relaxed. Definitely a luxury bath oil for a lovely spa day at home.

Let me know if you have tried any of these!

Advertisements

Share this:

2 bloggers like this.

What's new in beauty's favourite brand Nivea

New lipstick on the block- what's new in Beauty?

Super Facialist- Tried & tested

« Previous

Whats hot!? Everyday Luxury Jewellery

Published by beautybybellblog

I am a beauty, fashion and lifestyle blogger from London View all posts by beautybybellblog

Leave a Reply

Enter your comment here...